PROLOGUE

When I started my self improvement journey over 8 years ago, I would never had believed how far I could get. A shy, over nice guy I used to be. Extremely nervous around girls, always letting my happiness being dependent of other people. Depressed, no hope in future.

Until I finally made a decision to turn my life around. Finally getting over my shyness, getting a lot of women and becoming confident on social situations.

The methods I'm going through this book will not only dramatically improve your dating life, but every aspects of your life. Like making a new friends, expanding your social circle or improving your career. You will become the boss of your own happiness.

This book is mainly focused for going picking up women on bars and clubs. The whole process of how to prepare, how to approach and open, how take things to sex and maybe making her your girlfriend, if you want it. By going alone and sober, forcing yourself to interact with people your social skills and confidence will skyrocket. Also you will become immune to the fear of rejection.

I can say it's a very nice feeling when your dating life isn't dependent on alcohol and you can approach women everywhere without the caring possible rejections.

But I only give you the tools. You don't change your demeanor by reading the books. You need to go out there and apply these methods, so they will integrate in time on your persona and you will become naturally the most attractive version of yourself. In the Chapter 4 in this book, there is a 15 days program containing different drills you can apply to get rid of the fear of approaching and becoming confident around girls. The program also boosts your social skills, small talk skills and confidence.

My story of starting going alone to clubs and becoming good at it

I share first a few of my stories about going solo to bars.

When I started my journey to transform for better person: self improvement , becoming good with women, breaking my social anxiety and shyness; I throw myself straight to the fire. Alone, sober to the nightclub. This was not probably the best way to start this, but I wanted the change on my life.

What can you expect of insecure virgin going alone in nightclub? I was sweating and anxious. Just wanted to get fuck out of there, back to safe haven, my home.

But I knew I had to go out of my comfort zone if I wanted the change. So I went for it and forced myself the most uncomfortable situations I could experience at the time.

I approached a lot of women. And I got rejected a lot. Didn't even get phonenummer back then. I barely could be talk with them 2 minutes and then got blown a way.

But I kept going.

Few years later, alone on clubs again: I enter to the club and 15 minutes later leave with hottie, going back to my place. Few days later I go again to bar, straight to the dancefloor and few minutes later making out with hot girl, not long until I end up in bar's toilet to get my dick sucked and banging her. Then again, not long time until I hit the club, this time leaving the club with two girls who are friends and live at the same place, ending up banging both of them.

I wouldn't never believe I could do that years ago. My only goal was to find a cute average girlfriend. But when it all clicked, I found multiple of them. I also lived a full player life style in between the short or longterm relationships, by going multiple times a week to clubs for getting chicks.

These were just minor few of the countless adventures by going solo. I don't want brag, but to motivate you. The point of this was, you can do it too, if you are ready to leave your comfort zone and start your self improvement journey. It requires a self discipline and time.

So let's start this journey.

CHAPTER 1

Before we go into actual steps from approaching a woman and taking things to next level, the first thing to do is to maximize your potential. Increasing how you look, how you feel and how you behave. The dating game is numbers game, and you want to minimize the possible rejections and have the best possible results you can get.

If you are familiar with this and have already improved your potential, you can skip this section and go into details for playing the actual 'game', aka picking up women.

The looks matter for women, but it's not all. I'm not a hot guy. I was around average back then, but maximized my appeal to slightly above average guy. I already got laid before I maximized how I look, because I transformed my demeanor to attractive one, like I will tell in this book later how to. But when I also transformed how I look, my results with women skyrocketed.

The simple formula:

Maximize your demeanor/playfulness + Maximize your looks =
Great success with women

What makes a man's behavior attractive?

Being a Man. Women are attracted to manly men, like we are attracted to feminine women. Being a man who can stand for himself and take responsible. Being a man who is dominating and don't let others put him go down.

This is where 'nice guys' get friendzoned. They are lacking enough backbone to stand for themselves, which women see as a weakness. Women have their ancient instincts of being attracted to man who can protect her and the children. It's programmed in their brain to find a male with strong genes to pass for their child. A man who have the traits listed above is the strong man who they find attractive.

The 'badboys' who women find attractive have common one thing, they are usually low inhibition. They don't care about what other think and do what they want. And won't let other put them down. These attractive traits in their personality are the thing why women go always for badboys and nice guys don't get any. I'm not saying you should turn yourself into a thug, but to do some changes in your behavior if you find yourself acting over kindly.

Another thing besides the behavior and demeanor are the outer qualities that indicates a man being a good partner. How he looks, how he speaks, how is his body language? It's possible to master all of these things and make you tremendously attractive.

What makes a man good looking?

It's usually the two phenotypes that are the ones who are getting lot of women. The first one is a classic handsome guy, that women find a potential relationship material. These guys usually are 'nice guys', but not in the way I described above. They are friendly and steady, but confidence and have backbone to stand for themselves, so they are not having the "nice guy syndrome".

The second is the "Bad boy" type of guy, not so attractive facially, but he has some traits that makes women's pussy a wet. A mysterious behavior, tattoos maybe, yob, chill attitude towards life to live at the moment and not stress. This is the type girls want to get fucked hard and have one night stands.

Why most guys are struggling to get girls or/and are not players, is because they aren't the badboy types. BUT they aren't goodlooking enough being the first one type mentioned, so they lack the looks of the classic handsome guy and the sex appeal of badboy.

For getting laid or finding a girlfriend, there isn't a requirements to have the looks of male model. Slightly above average is more than enough, and most people can achieve this easily. After this it just becomes easier.

Improving your sex appeal and looks

So we start improving these masculine features to boost your sex appeal and looks. After maximizing all of these your success rate will raise tremendously.

-Losing the bodyfat percentage is the number one thing you can do to make yourself more good looking. Even if you lose the size, your facial structure will become more masculine due to sharpened jaw line and cheek bones.

Also visible abs are hot and sexy. Showing them off on the dancefloor is a good way to be the pussy magnet. My tip is to drop your bodyfat % somewhere around 10%, so you can see your real potential. After that start clean bulking to build muscles with minimal fat gains. The low bodyfat percentage also gives an illusion of widen shoulders and v-taper, so combine this with training lats and shoulders in the gym, and start swimming regularly to get that sexy V-taper.

The low bodyfat percentage alone though won't diminish the bloated face on some people. Bloated face is bad for your facial features in attraction wise. To maximize your looks, get rid of the possible facial bloating you may have. Here are ways to get rid of it:

- Minimize your salt intake. High salt intake swollen your face.
- Lowering the stress and cortisol levels. Cortisol levels can be reduced with some supplements, like Vitamin C or Rhodiola Rosea. The rhodiola rosea is one of my favorite supplements, it's like magical herb for boosting energy levels and mood, on the other hand killing the stress. It's effects are cumulative, so it needs to be taken on cycles.

The antidepressive and mood lifting effects can be seen in few days, but it takes a full effect in about week. I love that phase, feels like I become immune to stress. Little things wont bother me anymore and anxiety goes down. This herb also boosts testosterone levels, so the gym performance is better.

By icing the cake, it lowers the cortisol levels and can improve your looks by reducing the facial bloating. Read more here about reducing face bloating: <http://www.lonewolfmentality.com/how-to-get-rid-of-bloated-face/>

-Beard, preferring a stubble. It's like make up for men. For some guys it can dramatically improve their looks and hide the flaws. I always get the best results while I have a stubble.

The low bodyfat percentage, stubble and sexy tan is killer combo. These are the best ways to make you more attractive. Tanning though ages your skin, so it's double edged sword. It makes you temporarily more attractive, but in the long term less attractive due to worse skin quality.

For skin care, I don't like the products. I think they have some ingredients in them which temporarily reduces the pimples, but after stopping taking it, the pimples comes back bigger. I made a experiment in the past, and had face full of pimples for two weeks after stopping taking skin care products. Then the skin became the same as it was while taking the products: Not full acne, but some pimples here and there.

Some natural ways to get rid of these pimples and more clear skin, is to take a cold showers. Stopping the consumption of caffeine improved my skin quality greatly too. Also taking a zinc supplements are good ways to improve your skin.

About the hairstyle, this depends alot of your head shape. Shaving a buzz cut is a good way to boost sex appeal and "Bad boy" look. If you don't like this style though, ask your bartender which hairstyle fits you. They are good to estimate this.

Tattoos and piercings gives you a vibe of outgoing guy. Taking a tattoo though just for getting more women is a bad idea. It should have more meaning and personal for you.

Improving you behavior and performance

Your social skills will improve a lot when you go to the field (bars/clubs) and start picking up women, but it's always best to make sure you are on the right state of mind and can have the best possible vibe.

You can learn a small talk. You can increase your charisma. You can develop your social intelligence and skills. You can get over social anxiety. But these things: high energy, good mood and fast thinking, are not learnable. They can be acquired with healthy life style, but also with using some nootropics/supplements.

By maximizing them your results on the field will be better. When you get good results, you get more confidence. When you get more confidence, you get even better results. Think about it like real life RPG game, you are leveling the social skills. Maximizing your performance is like xp booster, you will improve faster.

Some ways to get more energy and boost mood:

- Maximize your natural testosterone levels. I have full guide for this in my blog: <http://www.playertricks.com/natural-way-to-maximize-testosterone/>
- Limit the masturbation once a week. Sex is okay though.
- Limit the use of stimulants like caffeine. When you have no tolerance, you'll get the positive energy boosting effects. Save the stimulants when you go out.
- I'm not going to list here a whole list of supplements, but here is a huge-list-of-working-and-non-working-supplements/ I've tried.

CHAPTER 2

The journey begins

After you have maximized your outer traits to be as attractive as possible, it's time to start going into details of maximizing your social skills, confidence, improving your flirt/playfulness, getting completely rid of the fear of the rejections, learning to read women and most importantly, acquiring the "I don't give a fuck" attitude which will make you to get what you want.

What women want?

It doesn't matter. What matters, is what YOU want. As a man it's your responsible to be the dominating gender (Not beating like caveman) who takes the charge. Women are attracted to guys who can take the initiate and do what they want. It's very important to be this guy when you first meet her. After you go further in the relationship, the dominance can be balanced. But when you are just starting to date her, you should always be the one who is taking the lead.

I'm not natural leader neither, but I learned to be the one who makes the decisions and takes a responsibility.

I know this may be hard if you have been accustomed to be the neutral one and always give other's to make a choice. This is what I suffered before, it was one symptom of the over kindness. I was afraid of getting rejected by saying my opinions or what we should do. It was just easier to follow others. Later on this book, when we go into steps by getting rid of the over kindness I explain it more.

When I got over this issue, and finally got confidence to say my own opinions and be the one making choices, I realized something very important. People started to like me more. People started to follow me, as I had confidence to take a lead. Not only women, but also men. Making a new friends were easier when I wasn't the neutral guy in the group, but went straight to the top of the group by having my own opinions and not caring what other's were thinking. The thing was, when I believed myself, other's started to believe me too.

Examples to be the dominant one while meeting women:

- Do not ask. Make statements. Example when you are about to get her phonenumber, you dont ask it, but say: "Put your number here so I'll text you".
- Don't be afraid to say your opinions. If you disagree something with her, don't be afraid to not say it.
- Make choices. Don't be neutral when you are about to do something and let her choice. Like answering "I dunno" or "Whatever".

Being dominated by male is a thing that is programmed in women's brain. That's why many got wet and horny when you are the dominating her and giving a rough sex. Being taken like a man.

To learn how to be more dominant, you need to acquire little bit of narcissism to stand for yourself. The word narcissism sounds bad, but it's necessary to get this. If you are always too kind for people and afraid to say what you want, you aren't going to acquire it. Start today applying this and getting more dominant behavior, example:

- If someone in group is asking to make a choice, you make it. At least say what you would like to do. Not "I dunno" or "Whatever".
- Say your honest opinions and what you are thinking. This grows your authority.

If you are with girl, do these:

- When you are walking, grab her hand. If she rejects (What I doubt), don't force it. This way you are showing you are a man who can proudly walk hand in hand with her. Many men are afraid to do this, and by doing so, you are already separated of not being a pussy.
- You see a pub/bar where you would like to go with her, don't ask but say: "That's good place, let's go there and get some drink". If she refuses, be okay with it and suggest something else. She's the follower.

Improving your social skills

Social skill is a skill like playing guitar. It can be learned. It can be improved, which requires doing it again and again.

I'm not extrovert naturally myself. I'm not high energy guy always having a need to say something. I'm very calm. But it's difference what I used to be is not what I say, but how I behave. The tone of voice, bodylanguage, facial expressions. Even I'm not social butterfly and the center of the party, I'm not shy anymore. And it's the first thing to get over to improve social skills.

People I've known a long time are always saying "You used to be so shy, how you got rid of it?".

And the new people I meet say "I can't believe you have been shy in past, you just don't look like it!".

Here are some tips what you can start applying today in your interaction with people if you already haven't:

- Eye contact. Take and hold an eye contact with the people you are talking with. If your look is wandering around, you are making yourself look like insecure. This is the habit you are able to do naturally when you do this enough.
- Be polite. This isn't the same thing as over kindness. Be polite, but if someone is trying to put you down, stand for yourself.
- Listen. Social interaction requires a two people. People like to talk about themselves. When you are good listener, people start to like you more and want to have prolonged conversations.
- Bodylanguage. This is important. Your bodylanguage tells more than your words. If you insecurely hold your arms around your body, you are keeping closed bodylanguage which make you look like you are uncomfortable. Even if you weren't, but these are the little things that you probably don't realize yourself. People may think you don't want to talk with them as you look uncomfortable.

By having an open and confident language you become more charismatic and people like more to have conversation with you. If you are standing, don't swing around. Stand with good posture, arms relaxed and have an eye contact with the one you are talking with. This alone makes you look greatly more confident. If you are sitting, spread your legs and lean back smoothly. Maybe put your arms widely between you.

- Sense of humor. Having a good sense of humor is an important trait. People like guys who are chill, funny and positive. None like negative people. Don't be so serious about things, laugh at them. Nothing to stress about, everything will end up good in the end.

One important thing when you are telling something which you think is funny, is not to burst into laugh. People find this uncomfortable when you are laughing at your own jokes which aren't funny really. Let them laugh first, then you can.

- Ability to laugh at yourself. Guys who have ability to not take them too serious and make joke of themselves are likeable. These types of people create an aura of calmness around them. People around them can feel relaxed. The next time you do something embarrassing, don't try to defend and struggle back. Laugh at yourself with other's. By not feeling a shame you'll become a man people like to follow.
- Call people with their names. Not of course when you are talking with two of you, but when you are in group. When you are using names, instead of pointing "you", you'll be more likeable. People want to hear their own names.
- Don't argue. It won't lead nowhere. What you win if you win the opposite in arguing? Right. Especially with women, it's like arguing with kid. You can't win. Instead go with the flow and let the other say whatever.
- Be open. Don't judge people. If you meet a new people and immediately start judging her/his opinions, you'll get hated. Be open up and listen people telling their opinions. By being open about this and not judging, meeting new people and making them like you becomes much more easier.

- Don't try to push people like you. Be yourself. If someone don't like you, it's okay. There is always hater, you can't please everyone. People are more likely coming like you when you aren't forcing them to like you.
- Don't brag. Don't try to get validation example by bragging how many women's you fuck. None likes people who brag. True players don't need approval by telling how much women they get.
- Don't be arrogant. None likes arrogant people.
- Smile. But in moderation. People who never smile, gives a vibe of boring and negative guy. Don't over do smiling either, but have it on moderation. A little smirk is sexy and mysterious.

By applying these traits of the list above makes you much more charismatic and more likeable. Start using them everyday. Over time it becomes your second nature. Example the bodylanguage thing, when I first started to apply it on my everyday situations, it was forced. When I did it again and again, it became a habit I didn't even notice. I naturally had that relaxed bodylanguage.

Getting rid of Social Anxiety

Social anxiety may be caused by the lack of the confidence of social skills. Confidence and being confident of something are different things.

I'm confident of my ability to pick up women, my knowledge of fitness and healthy life style, confident on sports. I'm not confident to have a speeches infront of people. I'm not confident to sing. I'm not confident to play a piano.

Being confident of doing something is a result of experience and success. I've never played a piano so I'm not confident about it. I've have put lot of effort and experience to master the dating game, so I'm confident around women.

I was insecure in social interactions, by always being a shy and quiet. This combined with my over kindness by being too afraid to offend someone when saying something in group, I couldn't even get the chance to get that experience to improve my social skills. This caused me social anxiety, I didn't believe myself in social situation. I was afraid of them because I was just completely insecure about my social skills.

I refused to open my mouth and had scenarios of what would happen if I say them. Like :

- "Saying this will other's think I'm weird".
- "This is not funny, saying this would be dumb".
- "Saying this will lower my social status".
- "I know this, but I'm too afraid to say it if other's don't like it".
- "I only have boring things to say".

Over thinking the upcoming scenarios was the thing holding my back. It felt uncomfortable to open my mouth and say these things. But the comfort zone can only be expanded by going out of it. This is why my way of going bars alone was good way to improve my social skills. As I couldn't open my mouth in group, by going talking with strangers I hadn't the pressure of "losing my social status" or "if I'm boring". Of course I was shaking and nervous when I had to do it, but as I did it again and again, I slowly improved. And started to get confident about my social skills. This circle feeds itself. Talking more with people makes you more social and confident on social situations.

Mood has also a big effect on how you feel the social anxiety. When I'm feeling exhausted, depressed or overall on bad mood, the socializing with people isn't the thing I want to do. When feeling like that, I'm trying to avoid having conversations. I'm just not interested in talking when feeling shit. When suffering of social anxiety already, it's a vicious circle. You are feeling depressed due the social anxiety and not available to interact with people. Then your mood's get low and you are even less more likely to have an conversations. And so on.

On the other hand, when I'm feeling good I'm more willing to talk with people and being interested about them. Coffee usually perks me up and makes me interested on things. Nootropics are good way to boost mood and your performance. When you are feeling good, you like to have a conversations with people, and that gives a vibe of being interested of them and they can sense it. A good conversations leads you feeling more confident when talking with people, and little by little the confidence just rolls and rolls higher, and finally you are enough confident about your social skills and have beaten the social anxiety.

A one way to start this if you are too scared to go by being yourself talking with people, it to start lowering your inhibitions and mood by alternative ways. Little bit of alcohol example. And nootropics as written above. This is though slower process when it comes to your progress. I don't recommend and provoke you to use any illegal substances and break the law.

By using the performance boosting substances you'll get good results as you can see your real potential what you would be if wouldn't have that social anxiety holding your back. But later you should do this sober, as this way you improve a dramatically way faster. I did this all from the beginning by going alone to bars sober and forcing myself to talk with people. This extreme way of going out of my past comfort zone improved my social anxiety dramatically, and got me over it pretty fast. I'm now only using mood boosters on bad days, only because when I'm not feeling good, girls can sense it and that lessens the attraction.

CHAPTER 3

How the dating game works?

It's always the numbers game.

Women rarely takes an initiative as they already get approached by guys all the time. Either in real life or on social media, so they won't bother to take an action. They won't take the risk to get rejected.

So you need to take an action and approach. The more you approach, the more you have chances to get laid. You just need to be in the right place at right time. The probability of being there will raise the more you approach.

As I stated earlier on the rejection chapter, the rejection can be a result of so many things that won't have anything to do with you, so the right place, the right time, is the case you want to get. She can have a bad day and hate all guys, even on good day she would like you. Right time would be on good day. You are not the fortune-teller and can't know these kind of things, so you need to go out there, explore and find out what she wants.

The dating game is about finding the girls that are attracted and available to you at the moment.

The looks matter, as it opens the doors. You don't need to be a male model though to get laid. All you need to be, is to be good looking enough for her standards, whatever she finds attractive. Usually an average looks is enough. She has probably already fucked an uglier guy than you.

Women don't like only one type of men, like men aren't attracted to only one type of women. The two stereotypes I mentioned earlier on this book, the handsome and masculine "bad boy". If you are average looking, and can even slightly boost yourself to have a little "bad boy" vibe, you are attractive enough for most women on looks scale. The rest is how you can handle and the other traits you have, and of course finding the right place and right time.

When you approach her, she either rejects you or approves you. Even if she is attracted to you, she may be a shy to take the things further. You as a Man have to be the leader and be responsible to escalate things further. If either of you aren't taking things anywhere, she will reject/friend zone you and wait for someone to approach her who actually can be the leading one.

The more you get laid, the easier it gets to get laid. You give a more confident and less desperate vibe everytime you get laid.

The biggest mistake most guys do, is to not take an action. Most guys just wait and believe that one day they will find the love. They wait and wait, and nothing ever changes. They let their happiness being dependent of other factors and won't themselves take the charge.

Be the guy who takes responsibility of your own happiness, go for your goals, and don't let your happiness being dependent of other people actions. When you don't need a social circle and can get what you want on your own, in this case women, you will be the boss of your own.

Step by step how to go alone to bars/clubs and get laid

Note that at the bar part is also prolonged in the Program later in this book and contains more examples. Skip this section for a while if you are just starting to improve your social skills and want to start with babysteps at Chapter 4.

The preparation

Grooming, styling, maximizing your potential. One important thing what you should not do before going out, is to masturbate. This will instantly kill your motivation and you are more likely making up reasons why not to go out there. Also, if you are taking an alcohol, you are less likely getting that whiskey dick.

If you are too nervous about going, drink example a couple of beers and listen some music that pumps you up for lessening the anxiety. You don't need this after you got good at this, but if you are just starting, this can be a good way to relax a little bit.

I was myself so nervous when I went the first night alone, that I had to take some alcohol. After this I went on sober thought, and that's when the best development happens. After you go sober out of your comfort zone, the comfort zone will greatly expand. Do this same thing again on drunk after this, and you feel unstoppable.

At the field

1. Investigate

Enter the club and go grab a drink if you feel so. This will relax you a little bit. I take a beer or just water, depending if I'm thirsty for beer at the moment. I don't take alcohol for lessening the anxiety, as I've done this so many times I can do this sober too. You will too if you already don't, after you get good at this and get the experience. I can say it's pretty relieving feeling when your dating life isn't dependent of alcohol. This also saves a lot of money.

Walk around and take a look at how's the crowd there. If there is a ratio of 90:10 guys to girls, just change the bar to another where is more girls. I may try to pick up these few first, but it'll probably go nowhere. Sometimes I had succeed to pull on cases where there were mostly guys, but that's rare, so I prefer places where are more opportunities.

2. Approaching

After wandering around and realizing there are a good possibilities of girls you would be attracted to, start cold approaching immediately. This way you get on the mood and outgoing vibe, and won't just stuck in the table. Dont be concerned about "warming up", but have a goal on the very first approach that you will fuck her.

There are nights when I have been luckily on the right place at the right time, and pulled the first girl I approached. Then there are nights when I've gone more than 20 approaches, and still didn't managed to pull. The variance can be a huge, and the factors affecting in it I have wrote earlier in this book.

Where to approach?

Now if you have no idea where to pickup girls at bar, these are good places:

- Smoking room. More quiet and easy to start convos like asking a light.
- At bar when getting drinks. It's good place to start convos, and get out easily if it's not going anywhere.
- Dancefloor.
- Quiet spots (These rarely appear in nightclubs)

Not as good places:

- Girls sitting at table. 3 is a good amount. If they are just 2 of them, you need to entertain her friend so she won't cockblock you. Sometimes though it's okay for her friend if you are just 3 of you there to have all the time with you and her. 3 of girls is better, as now they have 2 of them still left to hang out each other and you can have all the time with the girl you are picking up.

Bad places:

- People having their own inside social circle. Usually bunch of guys and girls who are only together and don't socialize none out of their circle. Not only if you are picking up girl from this kind of group, there usually comes the jealousy guys trying to cockblock you. Avoid these, so you don't waste time.

How to open?

Earlier I used to mass approach and go for inside groups I mentioned above, even I knew it wouldn't go anywhere. It was back then just training to get rid of approach anxiety and expand my comfort zone. Now I only approach these who I know I would have chances, like not jumping on those inside circles.

Examples of how to open conversation:

- "Hello, how's your night going so far? you are cute btw"
- "Hi you are hot, wanna dance?"
- "You are both cute, how's your night?"
- "You have a lighter" [she gives a light] "Thx, you are cute btw, I'm ... [hand shake]"

Showing your intentions right away that you are attracted to her and want to fuck her. Not some indirect opening lines where she may think you just want to have a conversation with her. It's not a desperate move to compliment her, at least when you aren't doing it too much.

On club environment it's all about you want to fuck. The earlier you show your intentions, the better. She will anyway decide on the first few minutes of your encounter either she will fuck you or not. So it's just better to make clear that you are the Man who do what he want's and is confident enough to be straight about this. Not playing some stupid games. There is no need for games if she wants to fuck you.

After opening, have a little small talk. Somewhere around 5-15 minutes is good enough time of talking. Then you start escalating physically and building the sexual tension. It isn't necessary to have a step by step escalating routine, example first slowly touching her arm, then knee, then hug her, then make out and so on. You can still get laid even zero escalating, but this kind of physical escalating is like foreplay and you can read either she is willing to have a sex with you.

If she rejects your attempt to go for make out, don't piss off. Take it cool and have a little humour and self irony, like: "Haha, sorry I was too quick to take things further" or "Haha, sorry I'm too aggressive, but you are too hot so I can't resist".

Continue small talk, tease her playfully. Remember to have an eye contact, this greatly builds the sexual tension between you. Now try again afterwards, if she rejects again, repeat. Continue a while, if you see that things aren't going anywhere and she isn't interested to make out, just leave politely. Maybe ask her phonenumber for date (Some girls aren't doing make outs with strangers at the same night, but are willing to fuck on the dates).

If she approves your attempt to make out, it's all in your hands now. Keep making out passionately, tease her, take her maybe to dancefloor and do some dirty dancing with her. Keep it physical all the time from there, example grab her hand when you are walking from one place to other. It's physical game, and the more you are at physical contact, the more she is comfortable to be around you and is sexually interested. It warms her up.

At some point ask where is the after party, and suggest either of your places. Again, if she is not ready yet to leave bar with you and go for your/her place, keep doing what you did before and build more the sexual tension. And ask again later.

When she agrees, you have succeeded. Have a fun and remember to have a safe sex! If you want to go hardcore, you can ask straight for sex in the nearest toilet. All this takes is about 15-60 minutes. I usually won't bother to be with girl over hour if it looks like things aren't going nowhere, unless the girl is super cool and I would like to take her to date.

But what if she rejects me in the first 10 seconds? Don't worry, this is usual. Just go for new girl and do steps above. It's not a rocket science, shortly and simply the steps are this:

1. Approach and make your intentions clear
2. If she rejects, go back to step 1. If she don't reject, go to step 3.
3. Have a small talk, example ask where she's from, how's her night been this far, do she go this place often. The topic can be whatever as long as you keep it playful and tease her.
4. After few minutes escalate physically. Depending where you are, example if you sit next to her, pull her against you. If you are standing and you have balls to pull your hand over her hip, go for it. Remember to not force it if she refuses. If you are not confident enough to directly escalate, ask her to dance floor. That's a good place to escalate and go for make outs.

5. Ask directly to place for after party aka sex. If she disagree, back to step 4. If she disagree again and looks like things aren't going nowhere, back to step 1. Otherwise, congratulations!

What if there isn't girls to approach on quiet spots?

No worry, just go for dance floor and try from there.
